CHE
Exmar Yachting TBC

Why is she so special? All the benefits of the catamaran form from this 2010 Sunreef built in composite. She's the second biggest sloop-rigged catamaran in the world, and has proven a popular charter choice. Look out for The yacht's surprisingly spritely sailing performance, thanks to her streamlined design, sleek hulls and aerodynamic, flat shape, and the very sociable open-plan salon, benefiting from all that beam that comes with the catamaran form.
DATA LOA: 37.8m. Beam: 12.8m.

LITTLE FISH
Ocean Independence T03

Why is she so special? Delivered in 2001 and rarely used by her first owner, she was then extensively refitted at Heesen in 2011 and remains in fine condition. Design is by Omega Architects.
Look out for The refitted upper-deck layout, with its new dining area.
DATA LOA: 39.8m. Beam: 8.3m. Guests: 8. Crew: 6.
Asking price €8.9 million (VAT paid)

ACHILLES TBC
G Yachts TBC

Why is she so special? Hull No4 in Sanlorenzo's Paszkowski-designed 46Steel series. She boasts a main-deck master, and three doubles and a twin with pullman on the lower deck.
Look out for The yacht's exterior deck spaces – much greater than you'd expect on a sub-50-metre.
DATA LOA: 46.0m. Beam: 9.3m. Top speed:17 knots.
Guests: 11. Crew: 9.
Asking price €19.95 million

MARTHA ANN
IYC R03

Why is she so special? All the pedigree you could wish for in this steel-and-aluminium Lürssen, launched in 2008 and refitted this year. The class interior is by Francois Zuretti. The exterior is by Espen Øino.
Look out for The split-level main-deck master with private observation lounge, offering 180° views.
DATA LOA: 70.1m. Beam: 9.2m. Guests: 18. Crew
Asking price $79.0 million Contact iyc.com
